PREFACE AND ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

Dear Colleagues:

I am pleased to have this opportunity to preface the 1992-93 edition of the USC-Spartanburg Fact Book. This compilation of information has been done by the Office of Institutional Research and Strategic Planning for the purpose of providing a convenient and authoritative source of information with respect to many aspects of the operation of the University of South Carolina at Spartanburg. Statistics presented in this book are based on the South Carolina Commission on Higher Education official reports and the University of South Carolina database system. Though not all-inclusive, it provides general information to which you should have ready access. It may also be useful for such purposes as strategic planning, recruiting new faculty, staff, and students, grant applications, and completing questionnaires.

The 1992-93 Fact Book was developed as a service to USCS by the staff of the Office of Institutional Research and Strategic Planning. Special recognition is given to Mr. Carl Miller, Research Analyst for his valuable review of the manuscript, David Peek, student assistant for his help, and to Mr. Scott Corbin of the Computer Services for assisting in data retrieval.

I hope you will take a few moments to familiarize yourself with the kinds of data that are included in this volume. The more we all know about USCS, the better. Finally, if there are data you would like to see included in future editions, please make your suggestions known to the office of Institutional Research and Strategic Planning by completing and returning the readership survey form included in the end of the document.

THE UNIVERSITY

The University of South Carolina at Spartanburg, one of eight campuses in the University of South Carolina system, is a four-year, coeducational institution offering bachelor's degree programs in the liberal arts, sciences, business administration, nursing and teacher education, plus the associate degree in nursing. In the spring 1994 semester, USCS moved to the graduate level with master's degree programs in elementary education and early childhood education.

More than 160 instructors and professors constitute the full-time faculty at USCS. Approximately 60% of them hold the appropriate terminal degree in their field. Institutions attended by faculty include a broad representation of colleges and universities. Today with an undergraduate enrollment of more than 3,200, USCS looks forward to expanding its services to citizens from all over the Piedmont region, other states, and other countries.

The history of the University of South Carolina at Spartanburg is a chronicle of remarkable growth and development. In 27 years, USCS has grown from a small regional campus into an important center of higher education for the entire upcountry region.

USCS was established primarily to avert what could have been a serious health care problem. In 1967, the Spartanburg General Hospital announced that it was phasing out its diploma program for registered nursing. A citizens' committee investigated the situation and ultimately requested that Spartanburg be included in the University of South Carolina system.

The Spartanburg Regional Campus, as the two-year school was first known, opened its doors in the fall of 1967 to 177 students, many of whom pursued an associate of science degree in technical nursing. The first class began its studies on the first floor of the Spartanburg General Hospital nursing residence. When the enrollment reached 488, classes were moved to the old County Health Department. In 1969, the first building was opened on the permanent campus, located on the northern outskirts of Spartanburg. Rapid growth soon made USCS a candidate for four-year status under the provisions of a 1972 legislative act.

In the fall of 1975, the Spartanburg Regional Campus officially became the University of South Carolina at Spartanburg, and the first twelve bachelor degree programs were approved by the South Carolina Commission on Higher Education. Within a year, USCS became accredited by the Commission on Colleges of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools and awarded its first baccalaureate degree.

MISSION STATEMENT

USCS recognizes that its primary responsibility is to educate students to live successfully with worldwide technological change and cultural diversity. Education also must prepare students to meet economic and social challenges and must enhance the quality of life. In view of these obligations, USCS has adopted the following mission statement:

USCS is an academic community dedicated to excellence in teaching, scholarly pursuits, creative activities and public service. Its primary responsibility is to educate undergraduate and graduate students to live successfully in a world of technological change, cultural diversity, and social and economic challenges. In view of this obligation, USCS has established the following goals for its students:

USCS graduates are competent in their major field of study. They can communicate effectively in standard English;

They know how to find information and to evaluate it quantitatively and analytically;

They have an expanded knowledge and understanding of their natural and social environments;

They have a heightened awareness and appreciation of language, literature, and the visual and performing arts;

They have an awareness of the roots of their own history, values, and culture, as well as those of others;

They are expected to enlarge their sense of personal responsibility to include life-long learning and physical well-being;

They are given opportunities to work cooperatively with others;

They are encouraged to deepen their sense of ethics and to become aware of the connection between individual choices and community life.

USCS - Approved by General Faculty 8/23/88, Revised 4/21/92.

SERVICES

Career Services

The Office of Counseling and Career Services offers assistance to students in identifying and implementing career goals. Testing is available to help students identify personal characteristics and a career library containing many sources of valuable career information and computerized Career exploration (SIGI+) is maintained in the office. The office also conducts Job Fairs, interviewing training, job placements, credential service, and campus interviewing.

Counseling Services

The Counseling Services staff works with students, individually and in groups, regarding a variety of concerns. Topics such as stress, anxiety, depression, alcohol and drug abuse, eating disorders, human sexuality, and personal development are addressed through workshops and individual consultation.

Tutoring Lab

USCS has a free tutoring service available to all students. Faculty and qualified students staff the lab and provide assistance in all academic areas. They also can help improve individual study techniques.

Veterans' Services

The Office of Financial Aid and Veteran Affairs handles certification of all veterans receiving educational benefits while attending USCS and assists with problems concerning such benefits. The Veterans Affairs staff also helps with educational, vocational, and personal concerns which might affect the veteran's academic success.

Housing

On campus housing is available to USCS students at the Rifle Ridge Apartments, located between the tennis courts and soccer field. These units are owned and operated by a private company which works in cooperation with USCS to provide a residential experience within an educational environment.

Health Services

A registered nurse is available on campus to provide nursing assessment and treatment, health education, disabilities resources, and act as community medical liaison.

Child Care

USCS houses a licensed Child Development Center which serves both the university and the community on a free for service basis.

Public Safety Office

The Staff of the Public Safety Office patrols the campus twenty-four hours a day to preserve order, protect students and their property, and enforce all laws and university regulations. Every USCS Public Safety Officer is a fully-commissioned state constable with full powers of arrest. Public Safety personnel issues student parking permits, enforce campus parking regulations, and keep battery cables, tools, and first-aid kit for minor emergencies.

Financial Aid

USCS seeks to provide financial aid to every student in need for such assistance. Awards are based on demonstrated financial need and academic promise. Scholarships, grants, loans, and on-campus job programs are available.

The Quality Institute

The Quality Institute, located in the John M. Rampey Jr. Center on the USCS campus, has been providing a wide variety of quality-management programs for businesses in the Upstate since it was created two years ago. In workshops, seminars and training sessions, employees of companies of all sizes are learning the quality-improvement methods that are crucial to competing in today's global marketplace.

Established with the help of $1 million from the Appalachian Regional Commission, the Quality Institute is managed by the USCS School of Business as a cooperative venture involving the state Board of Technical and Comprehensive Education, the Spartanburg Area Chamber of Commerce, and others.

Under the terms of the start-up grant, the institute operated for its first two years under the auspices of Enterprise Development Inc., a non-profit organization created by the state Development Board. Beginning March 1, 1994, this oversight role is being assumed by the Board of Directors of the Carolina Piedmont Foundation, the non-profit foundation that supports USCS programs and scholarships.
